Joe Agreste : Consumer's Guide to Modern Electronic Security before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Consumer's Guide to Modern Electronic Security:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Informative and a good value By Anthony Reid Not knowing anything about getting an alarm for my home, this book provided a wealth of knowledge in shopping for a home alarm system. It taught me how to find a security company and what questions to ask. When I invited sales people to my home, the info in this book helped me challenge the integrity of the companies I talked with. I sleep much better at night with my new security system. I would recommend this book to all. It is a great resource even if you already own an alarm system. I feel the $10 cost was well spent. 2 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Very little useful information. By Trish SI am very disappointed with this book. I wanted to install a new security system for my home. Even though I am still a novice, I find very little useful information from this book. Don't recommend this book at all!

Do you have something in your home or business that you want to protect? Are you seeking that secured feeling that comes with knowing someone else is watching over your loved ones and valued possessions? Joe Agreste, a professional security expert for over twenty-five years, seeks to educate the average consumer about modern electronic security for a home or small business. He draws from his experience in both industrial and residential application, to guide the consumer through equipment choices, system design and application, selecting an installation company, monitoring options, and basic contract hints. If you are looking to purchase a security system for your home or business, Joe Agrestes Consumers Guide to Modern Electronic Security is a great place to start.

About the Author Since he began working in the security industry in 1978, Joe Agreste has been involved in the design and installation of over five thousand security systems. In addition, he is the owner of AlarmSoft, a company that caters to the security market. Currently, he lives in Chesapeake, Virginia, with his wife and two sons. In his spare time he enjoys computers and coaching baseball.
