Pasquale Pizzichetti : Defend your house from the risk of flooding - Do it yourself: your own bulkhead against flooding before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Defend your house from the risk of flooding - Do it yourself: your own bulkhead against flooding:

Some say that the danger posed by water is worse than that of fire. In effect I fear both. However, either if you live in a city or in a provincial town, there is always a risk, higher or lower, to be flooded by water. For those who do not want to suffer passively the events, here is a practical guide to build "Do it yourself" bulkheads against flooding. With some good will and time, you can build a low cost efficient system with simple materials. This guide is intended for everybody, but in particular for people who are not professional in this field.
