John Walker : Digging Deep In The Garden: Book Four before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Digging Deep In The Garden: Book Four:

"The most common sense gardening writing there is a vital message for everyone, gardener or not." Gardening with your gut instincts... growing your own edible resilience... why money cant buy the good life... unpicking media delusions about peat use... kicking our addiction to oil in our gardens... the compelling power of asking questions. In this diverse, insightful and engaging collection of essays exploring gardenings place in nature, John Walker exposes illusions, debunks myths and wipes away greenwash, rallying us to challenge and change the over-consuming, nature-indifferent approach to gardening as usual. This fourth and final book of Johns earth-friendly garden writing, originally published in Kitchen Garden magazine as his popular and long-running series Digging Deep, includes Kicking the habit, which won the Garden Media Guild Environmental Award in 2010.

'The most common sense gardening writing there is ... a vital message for everyone, gardener or not.' Petegardener, .co.uk 'Thought-provoking and well written.' Peter R, .co.uk 'Shows what zest can be added to our garden reading.' Helen Gazeley, Weeding the Web 'Cuts right through to the heart of the important issues that mainstream garden lifestyle writers simply don't address.' J. Ferguson, .co.uk 'An intelligent reminder of the joys and responsibilities of gardening.' Jebby7, .co.uk 'There is lots of humour.' Cherry Lavell, Gloucestershire Organic Gardening Group 'Would like to see some more of his gardening wisdom.' Savvyshopper, .co.uk 'An authentic voice in an often dull crowd of garden writing.' Darren Lerigo, Modern Mint 'Everyone who professes to care about the world we live in should read this book.' Nicky Kyle, www.nickykylegardening.co.uk 'John Walker's prose makes for enjoyable reading.' Nicholas Dakin-Elliot, .co.uk 'A very thought-provoking book which I enjoyed very much.' Valerie Fairbank, .co.uk 'These essays are more relevant now than ever.' Judith Conroy, .co.uk

About the Author John Walker is an award-winning gardening and environmental author, writer, blogger and micropublisher with 40 years experience in practical gardening, teaching and the garden media. He grew up in the countryside, caught the gardening bug while still at school, and trained at Birmingham Botanical Gardens, Cambridge University Botanic Garden and the Royal Botanic Gardens Kew, where he was awarded the Kew Diploma in Horticulture. He is also a qualified teacher. John was features/deputy editor of Garden Answers magazine and contributing editor of Kitchen Garden. John writes about organic, earth-friendly gardening for national newspapers and magazines, including The Guardian and The Daily Telegraph, and for the Royal Horticultural Societys journal The Garden. His four collections of cage-rattling essays, Digging Deep in the Garden, explore gardenings place in nature. A new and updated edition of Weeds: An Organic, Earth-friendly Guide to their Identification, Use and Control was published in 2016. Johns How to Create an Eco Garden: The Practical Guide to Greener, Planet-friendly Gardening was shortlisted for the 2012 Garden Media Guild Practical Book of the Year. He wrote The Bed and Border Planner, edited A Gardeners Guide to Annuals, and contributed to the Garden Organic Encyclopedia of Organic Gardening. John has won the Garden Media Guild Environmental Award three times, and has been shortlisted for Gardening Journalist of the Year three times. John is slowly making a new earth- and climate-friendly garden from a once bracken-riddled hillside at his edge-of-woodland home in Snowdonia, North Wales.
