This book will show you how to make a rolling log holder, a plumbing pipe clothes rack and wall mounted bookshelves. Looking to make a unique gift? How about a jewelry stand or big pipe bookends. Book also includes making a floor lamp, tabletop, lamp, angle legged console, rolling side table or a locker basket dresser. Step by step directions and pictures are excellent. The author also explains where to buy materials, cutting pipes, cleaning and whether to paint or not. Supplies, tools, time required and skill level are included for each project. There are 25 projects in this book. 4 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Great Take on DIY By Zaabaa This book by James Angus introduces a fun way to make useful furniture, albeit small furniture pieces, and decor from the oft-neglected building material that is industrial pipe. The aesthetic the furniture has is unique, and it can be just what you're looking for. The 25 projects in this book are all very well organized, clearly explained, and the skill needed to make them is introductory. Besides the specific instructions, Angus also provides a detailed introductory section which lays out the general usage and characteristics of pipe. This section alone inspired me to think of the many things I could create once the book ideas ran out. Can't wait to see what I think of!

By Xan. Belzley
I got this book as a "hint hint" for my construction worker boyfriend when we moved in together, and he has been loving the detailed instructions and step by step photos (not incomprehensible diagrams, but actual PHOTOS) in this book. We live close to a Menard's which always is having some sale or other, and so it's been easy to accumulate the supplies we need. So far we have tackled the garment rack, the napkin rings and the door handle, and have been really impressed with the sturdy results. It's a fun tone, too--it's a lot less boring than you might imagine a book like this to be. Gifting for construction types can be so hard during the holidays, but honestly this plus a $20 gift card to a home improvement store would be an amazing gift. It's well-written, clear, and has a lot of variety. I personally recommend getting a can of spray metal paint in a brass color to step up these projects a little more, but that's totally up to your aesthetic.
