Senior Editor Asma Afsaruddin : Excellence and Precedence: Medieval Islamic Discourse on Legitimate Leadership (Islamic History and Civilization) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Excellence and Precedence: Medieval Islamic Discourse on Legitimate Leadership

(Islamic History and Civilization):

This volume focuses on how legitimate leadership came to be defined in the formative period of Islam in terms of two key Qur'anic concepts: moral excellence (fadl/fadla) and precedence (sbiqa). These two concepts undergirded a specific discourse on leadership which developed in the first century of Islam. This discourse is reconstructed through careful scrutiny of the manqib literature in particular, which contains detailed accounts of the excellences attributed to the Rshidn caliphs. This book stresses that all early factions, including the proto-Sh'a, subscribed to the Qur'nically-mandated vision of a righteous polity guided by its most morally excellent members. Such a conclusion forces us to rethink the nature of leadership in the earliest period and reconsider the criteria invoked to establish its legitimacy.

'..the book's epistemic value is immense...In academe, the work should be a vital part of any reading list for graduate comprehensive examinations in Islamic studies.' Khaleel Mohammed, "H-Net s, 2004." "Scholars of Islamic history should breathe a communal sigh of relief with the appearance of Afsaruddin's in-depth analysis in "Excellence and Precedence..." Afsaruddin's study, notably its meticulous approach to surveying an impressive range of primary sources in Arabic, will be appreciated by those scholars who wish to know more about such polemics and the theoretical underpinnings that come with them." Colin Paul Mitchell, "Journal of the American Oriental Society," 2004.
