Great book, great price, and in great condition By Janice Parker I saw this book at an antique mall and they wanted $12 dollars for it! it was $24 when it was new over 10 years ago! What were the mall owners thinking???? Do they not know that a new item once off the sales floor is only worth 35% of it's original value? Needless to say, I didn't buy it. I checked and got a deal. Even with shipping the total was less than half of what the mall wanted. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Sweet but impractical By Read for Pleasure Very pretty book, well organized and nicely designed. Nice variety of families and locales. I had to laugh at how much white was used in every house! The Alber family home was a little more realistic--they have a black lab--but all those little things to dust and get knocked over! I also wonder about the flea market finds in a house with children--flaking paint, furniture falling apart with hard use. I DO think it's a neat book, but lots of adaptation would be necessary to actually implement these looks in a rambunctious busy household. 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Family-Friendly Interiors By Rebecca of I had to laugh when I saw the adorable tiny closet where clothes are hung on the level a child could reach them. What a cute idea. The Testu Family Home also has some interesting ideas for hanging pictures. The Cottage was quite cozy and the City Chic kitchen was pretty amazing. The Alber's home had a wonderful idea for placing the washer and dryer in a specially built cabinet. 8 homes are featured in

From French flea market style to city chic, real-life homes of real-life people usually have one thing in common: the heart and soul of their design comes from personal inspiration. And what inspires more than one's own family? Family Rooms explores unique and personalized blends of old and new, function and elegance, budget and beauty, each creating a timeless look while accommodating for the inevitable evolution of family life. Using seasonal accents, unique storage solutions, and a careful attention to a cost-effective budget, eight every-day families have discovered how to transform their homes into personal sanctuaries. Walk through the front doors and into the lives of eight real families who have met the challenge of modern living with their own sensible and stylish solutions—all without the help of a "professional designer." The design world has yet to see a more exciting or energetic team as that of this real life sister and brother duo, who hail from a close-knit and creative family of their own. Through their uniquely talented eyes, Tirzah and Jonathan have collected a varied group of distinct households and individual styles to create an easy-to-read and encouraging how-to guide for common design problems. In no time, you'll be thinking, "if they can do it, so can I!" Tirzah Ortiz-Wanlass's design work has been featured in Better Homes and Gardens, Decorating, and Country Home magazines, as well as HGTV's Awesome Interiors and Interiors by Design. She is a contributing editor with Meredith Publications. P. Jonathan Ortiz is a graduate of St. Mary's College, California and is in the design and home retail industry. Widely sought after for his unique and distinctive designs, he creates personally tailored spaces for individuals and corporate clients.
