Fionnuala Fallon : From the Ground Up: How Ireland is Growing Its Own before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised From the Ground Up: How Ireland is Growing Its Own:

This book tells the stories of some very talented and very different 'ticklers of the earth', all of whom live and garden in Ireland today. From schoolchildren to retirees, amateurs to experts, what they share in common is a delight in growing their own fruit and vegetables.

About the Author Fionnuala Fallon, horticulturist, writer and garden designer, is a weekly contributor to The Irish Times. A longstanding contributor to The Irish Garden, she has written on a range of subjects. A frequent collaborator with her husband, photographer Richard Johnston, this is their first joint publication. Richard Johnston, an experienced freelance Irish photographer, has a broad portfolio of work, ranging from gardens and lifestyle to art and interiors. It is reproduced widely in magazines, newspapers and books.
