5 of 7 people found the following review helpful. Requires no special gardening or do-it-yourself skills By Midwest Book Review
In Garden Decorator: Making The Most Of Outdoor Space, Gilly Love draws upon her extensive experience as a dedicated gardening who designed a roof terrace in London and restored an abandoned garden in Suffolk in applying interior decorating ideas to outside spaces with a horticultural motif. This beginner's guide to decorating a garden requires no special gardening or do-it-yourself skills as Gilly shows how to use outdoor spaces for entertaining, simple techniques with impressive results for any size space, as well as offering fifteen step-by-step, profusely illustrated projects ranging from gilded pots and a container pond, to a bubbling fountain and floral chandeliers. Garden Decorator is a very highly recommended addition to any personal or community library garden design and enhancement reference collection.

Your garden is so much more than a random assemblage of plants. Make yours a vibrant work of art with The Garden Decorator. This useful and creative manual guides you through all the color choices and other aspects you have to choose from in order to create just the right setting. Applying interior decorating ideas to outside spaces, with a dash of horticulture thrown in, the inspiration and practical techniques in this book will be indispensable to anyone who wants to transform their outside area into a stylishly decorated outdoor room. There is inspiration for transforming all types and sizes of areas, from using painted pots on tiny urban balconies to transforming a more extensive garden into a suitable place for entertaining.
