Ferris Cook : Garden Dreams before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Garden Dreams:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Planting a garden in the mind's eyeBy Bernie (xyzzy)The title says it all. This is a book of essays from people remembering gardens to others planning inaccessible (except in ones mind) gardens.Winner if the Garden Writer's Association of America's 1992 Will and Towel Award for Excellence in Graphic Design and Illustration.Contents:* A White Garden in Wales* A Garden of Primroses* A garden of Paving Stones* Grandmother's Garden* If I Were to make a GardenWe have probably been in each of these situations at one time and it is warming to see that we are not alone with our "Garden Dreams."

Nine garden writers share dreams and memories of ideal gardens, with illustrations inspired by early 20th century book design. Vita Sackville-West muses on her desire for a paving-stone garden, while Samuel Parsons remembers his grandmother's New England Quaker garden of the early 19th century.
