Tony Russell : Gardens to Visit 2010 before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Gardens to Visit 2010:

Gardens to Visit 2010 is the eighth edition of the full colour guide to gardens that are open to visit in the British Isles. The 2010 edition features more than 200 of the very finest British gardens divided into counties. Each garden featured in the book is given a full page description with a brief history of the garden and details of the plants that are grown, as well as at least one full colour picture. Each entry includes a fact file detailing the opening times, the admission charges and the facilities, including details of disabled access. The location and the contact details of each garden including the web address and email are also included.

About the Author Tony Russell was Head Forester at Westonbirt Arboretum for thirteen years until 2002, before leaving to become a BBC garden writer and broadcaster. He has presented several TV series including Roots and Shoots, Garden Trail and Britains Great Trees. He is a regular on BBC Radio 4's Gardeners Question Time and has written eight books, including his Finest Garden Series for Amberley.
